NAUQUEN EXPEDITION.

To-day the scientific expedition to the great valley of the Nauquen starts, and, without attaching too much importance to the affair, we may remind our readers, that a year or so ago, no one knew anything of Nauquen or its inexhaustibly rich valley. Nauquen is, in fact, a corrollary to the Rio Negro business, and from all we can gather about this new district, it is more fertile than any part of the Rio Negro territory, but its distance from Buenos Ayres is something enormous, and, with all its advantages, it is not likely that it will be 'sheepfarmerized' or 'estanciarized' in our day,

If Colonel Olascoaga and his comrades, who form this expedition party, discover gold in the boulders that cover the fields of Nauquen or even a vein or two of good coal, we might possibly have a Nauquen fever that would flood the place with adventurers and disturb the peace of a valley said to be the most delightful in this Hemisphere; but with all our estanciero Idolatry and new campenthusiasm, we very much doubt if the pasturages of Nauquen are sufficient to get people to follow in the Colonel's track. Nauquen may beat Tijuca in scenery and San Isidro in fertility, but who on earth could attempt to drive sheep or cattle such a distance?

In our recent excursion to the Venado Tuerto we had a taste of camp travelling under the most favoured circumstances. The Melincue camps are certainly splendid, but much of that splendour is removed after the first night's sleeping in the open pajas, or making a good South American breakfast on 42 mates, at a single sitting. People who go out to see these new camps must be prepared to rough it a little. We have no wish to check the experimental sheepfarming spirit that has taken some of our best subscribers to the pathless jungles in the Chaco and the very banks of the Colorado. Good will come of their 'viajes,' but before we erect a new shrine at Nauquen, let us remind our camp readers that within two days' journey of Buenos Ayres there are still the most beautiful camps to be had, and that the Province does not hold cattle enough to stock these camps which, no matter how the seasons prove, always have grass on which rodeos always give 40 p. cent increase.

Colonel Olascoaga possesses our best wishes and hopes. His inimitable work on the Rio Negro, just published, is but a first edition of his 'viajes' to Nauquen. We shall watch with the faith of the shepherd kings the stars he follows when plunged into the boundless Pampa; and although we should be slow to advise any of the farmers to join the expedition, we are very far from predicting its failure or baulking it by faint praise. There is really nothing barren in the move, and the War Minister merits praise for utilizing his elements in exploring new camps for the benefit of the farmers, instead of exhausting them in Plaza drill or the never to be forgotten goose-step.

Nauquen is not near the mountains of La Mancha, nor is Olascoaga a first cousin to Sancho Panza. The expedition is one that claims our best hopes and wishes, and it is most satisfactory that the expedition in question is composed of military scientists, men who are well up in everything and who, if there is anything in the place besides grass, will be the first to find it out.

NEW STEAM LINE.

The decree of the National Government, which we give at foot, will be read with astonishment by many, since it is an entirely new departure from our old political routine, and points clearly to the studied effort of the Government to use all its influence and all its elements to foment the industries of the country. Who could have ever supposed that an Argentine Government would convert its war steamers into sailing packets. Possibly a still further innovation awaits us, and the frontier troops will be ordered to grow maize and alfalfa: a very capital move it would prove also.

The Argentine war steamer Villarino will now commence to run as a regular liner to Bahia Blanca and Patagonia, and President Roca explains the move in the preamble to the edict. The confidence of the public as shown by their large investment in Rio Negro lands merits reward, and it is with a view to help those lands and that territory, and afford to the purchasers a cheap and easy means of communication, that the fine war steamer Villarino is turned into a passenger boat. All our swords have been long since changed into reaping-hooks, and to complete the Cincinnation epoch in our politics, we only need to turn these expensive iron clads, gunboats, &c., into deep sea-fishing vessels, or passenger steamers to the mouth of the Rio Negro. We never translated a Government decree with greater pleasure than the following, and we hope that the new agent, Mr. Marsans, will put the passage money so low that many of the Rio Negro land purchasers will be able to make a trip, if not to the very land which they call their own, at least to that ten thousand dollar league territory which is washed by the waves of the South Atlantic and watered by two of the finest rivers of this continent;—

B. Aires, Jany 4th 1881.

CONSIDERING—That the troopship Villarino was built expressly for the purpose of maintaining regular communication between the Capital and the trading ports on the South Coast, to thus foment our great pastoral industry, the chief source of this country's wealth, and which the Government is resolved to develop by every means in its power, amongst them that of providing easy means of transport for the products of those distant parts:

Furthermore. That the moment has arrived for reciprocating the confidence shown by the commercial community in subscribing for the loan to carry out the Expedition to the Desert and purchasing a great portion of the lands offered for sale, and especially those lying between Bahia Blanca and Patagones,

And. It being necessary to lay down in what form and character the ship is to enter on this new service, the President of the Republic decrees.

Art. 1. The troopship Villarino is hereby placed on packet service between Buenos Aires, Bahia Blanca and Patagones.

Art. 2. She is placed at the public service for carrying passengers, cargo, parcels etc., making a round trip between the ports named every thirty days.

Art. 3. Don Agustin Marsans is hereby named general agent of the Villarino, and he will submit, for the approbation of the Government, whatever complimentary bases he may deem best for offering all necessary facilities and guarantees to the trading public.

Art. 4. The agent named shall be responsible for the proper victualling, not only of the crew, but also of the passengers, the Commissary General of the Navy having the right to interfere in the first-named case.

Art. 5. The vessel will retain its present crew, with the addition of a second Commissary, whose duty it shall be to take charge of the fares, freights, baggage &c.

Art. 6. In due time the General Agency will announce the first day of sailing, and publish the rate of freights, fares &c.

Art. 7. The agent will keep, on each trip, an exact account of the receipts and expenses, producing vouchers for same.

Art. 8. The agent's remuneration will be fixed in another decree.

Art. 9. Let this be communicated, published &c.

The La France's Mails

IMPORTANT FROM EUROPE.

London, Dec. 12th.

Five thousand troops of all arms are ready to leave at a moment's notice to reinforce the army in Ireland, but the order for their departure has not yet been given. It is said that Mr. Forster, Chief Secretary for Ireland, has lost all the illusions which he entertained about Ireland when he entered office, and that he is now convinced that no concession will satisfy the Parnellites. It is expected that the Irish members will move an amendment to the Address if Her Majesty's speech says anything about coercion in Ireland; and if it does not, Sir Stafford Northcote or Lord Churchill will take that step. The Daily News says that this session of Parliament is certain to become historical.

Another terrible colliery explosion has occurred near Cardiff: 40 miners killed.

The works on the Pacific and Atlantic Railway across Canada are now in vigorous train.

The report of a Cabinet crisis in Downing street, on the Irish Question, was a device of the Tory organs. There was never any serious danger of a crisis.

The new Mexican Minister to France, Sr. Velazco, has been officially received by President Grevy.

In Paris the launching of the shares of the Panama Canal proved a most wonderful success. Up to yesterday 1,200,000 were taken up, and the success of the enterprise can no longer be doubted.

M. Raspail has moved in the French Chambers that the Crown Jewels of France be sold.

The French Government has been obliged to retrace its steps with some of the religious congregations. When the Trappists were ejected from their monastery at Bellefontaine, in Anjou, troops were left to take care of the cattle and sheep and do the rough tillage; but the sons of Mars made such a prodigious mess of the valuable property that the Government recalled the monks and gave them back their monastery. The soldiers cheered as they marched out and the monks marched in.

A negro conspiracy in Cuba has been discovered and the leaders sent before a court-martial. The coloured classes are so frightened at this unexpected result that no such further attempts are apprehended.

The Pope postponed the intended Consistory till Christmas Eve. His Holiness is not well, the unhappy relations between Church and State in France having much affected his health. The Patriarch of Constantinople will be made a Cardinal shortly.

The Aurora, official organ of the Holy See, says that although the Pope has a special affection for the Catholic people of Ireland, and wishes to see their lot improved and their just complaints listened to, His Holiness will ever condemn rebellion, murder, incendiarism and violence.

The result of the inquiry into the collision between the Ortigia and Oncle Joseph off Spezia, throws the entire blame on the captain and officers of the Ortigia, who are likely to be severely punished.

Yesterday a large meeting was held at Caherciveen, on the land question, at which upwards of 20,000 people were present. Most violent speeches were made against the English Government, and an incident has attracted great attention. Some of those present announced themselves nacionalists, and protested against the Fenian and Land League movements, which, they asserted, only serve to demoralize the people, This led to a great uproar, but when order had been restored various resolutions against the English Government were adopted. Some Catholic priests were present at the meeting.

LATEST FROM GENOA.

(By a 'Standard' Subscriber)

Genoa, Dec. 2, 1880.

To the Editor of the Standard,

Sir,

Before leaving Buenos Ayres I was morally bound to open correspondence with the Standard and give it my impressions on what might strike me as being most worthy of notice in my travels, or rather what might be most interesting to its readers. 'But man proposes and God disposes.'

I left England as soon as I could, and after staying a week in Paris, I left that city also, in company with Don Juan Magdaleno, for Marseilles. I wanted sun; there was little of it remaining in England, and what there was seemed the last gasps of a worn out kerosene lamp. Paris is not much better in this respect. Here the atmosphere is clearer; the sun is somewhat more dignified, and is gas compared with the English old tallow candle.

Most of your readers know London and Paris well enough, so I shall start them with the velocity of an express to the Mediterranean shores. Marseilles is the first place we come to on this inland sea, and a fine city it is, not so much for its architecture, I think, as for its magnificent situation, as well in a commercial as in a pictorial point of view. It is useless to enter into its history or commerce, or statistics or antiquity. Take up a guide book and you will find all this, and much more, but if you are really curious, read Cæsar over again, and then you will find the part it played in the great civic war.

The majority of the streets of Marseilles are narrow, like those of most Southern cities, but there are some like the Rue Canabieres which are exceedingly wide, regular Boulevards, equal to those of Paris, much frequented, full of hotels and splendid cafés, and people living greatly in the open air. But what strikes the stranger most are the public promenades, with their magnificent rows of plane trees, which in my opinion surpass completely those of the metropolis.

Marseilles owes everything to its situation. I do not fancy its architecture, nor even that of Paris. The houses are exceedingly high, and as many families live in the same edifice, there is a want of open space and the somewhat natural consequence, the dirty habit of hanging clothes out to dry from the windows of the different stories; it may be picturesque, but it awakens no pleasant ideas. The most pleasant promenades by far are the Corniche, the Prado, the race course, or that along the shore. This is absolutely lovely, commanding an extensive view of the bay and its numerous islets, among which is found the Chateau d'If, rendered so famous by Dumas. Speaking of Monte Christo. I do not consider the prisoner's escape and swim to be any very great exploit, much less in these days of Beckwith, Webb and Boyton.

The Zoological gardens too are well worth seeing; though not equal to those of London and Paris, yet they command the greater part of the town, and the fountain and cascade can challenge anything of their kind.

But it is time to leave Marseilles and its inhabitants; they are vain enough without others adding to their vanity, and so, with their permission, we shall wish them good bye and make our way to Genoa. The road between these two cities is one the traveller can never forget. It runs principally through a highly cultivated valley between very lofty hills or ramifications of the Ligurian Alps, and now and then right on the Mediterranean shores. The low grounds are covered with olive trees and the mountains with pine to the very summits. Every inch of ground available is tilled, and the stranger cannot but admire the patience of the peasant who forms terrace upon terrace of earth on these otherwise unfertile mountains. We pass Cannes and Nice on the road to Genoa. Both are beautiful places, and it is no wonder that strangers from all quarters of the north flock to them in winter. I met scores of our countrymen like so many birds of passage hastening to these resorts; and it is not strange, for they are admirably situated, well sheltered, with a clear atmosphere and enchanting views of the tranquil Mediterranean sea. We pass Monaco too and Monte Carlo, and I am sorry to say many fellow passengers, young and old, men and women, were flocking to this famous gambling hole.

But here is Genoa. This city is situated on the gulf of the same name, surrounded by lofty ramifications of the Alps. It is not unlike Marseilles. That is to say the streets are narrow, the houses very high, some of them ten stories and solidly built. The buildings are lower as they go climbing up the mountains, and the uppermost look like so many goats perched up on the cliffs. Above all stand the fortifications. They appear most formidable, and there is no doubt a foreign enemy would find it very difficult to master such obstacles. It was all Massena could do to take the place even half a century ago. Its present strength is triple what it was in his time.

While on this subject, I might as well remark that the greatest activity exists here and in France amongst military circles.

I am a 'lego' as the Porteños say in those matters, but to me, a mere looker on, the French soldiers seemed wanting in discipline and physique. The Italians seem much superior, their officers are well dressed look intelligent and gentlemanly, and I have no doubt that, when the next European war breaks out, the Italian army will give a good account of itself.

I saw some companies practising target-firing and on my way to visit the cemetery I met others coming back. Curious enough, they sang capitally and in time while on the march. Though it struck me as very odd, yet nobody else seemed to notice it, and I came to the conclusion that it is a habit. In my next I shall endeavour to give you a description of the cemetery of Genoa, It is the grandest thing of the kind in the world. With this excuse my remiss ness and remember me to your friends.

Your obedient servant

Will Honeycomb.

BRITISH RESIDENTS' BALL.

The following very flattering letter, from Sr Horace Rumbold to the Committee, will doubtless afford satisfaction to the members of the British Community, here, who contributed to the success of the Ball. The letter is made public by permission of H.E. The Minister.

(Copy)

Belgrano, Jan. 6th 1881

Dear Mr Carroll,

You must allow me to tell you, and through you the Ball Committee, how great was, in my humble opinion, the success of the Fête given to the Detached Squadron. I am the more anxious to do this, as I feel that, owing to the stringent instructions I was bound to carry out, as regards the reception of the Princes, I was to some extent a clog to you and your fellow-workers of the Committee in your desire to do honour to their Royal Highnesses. You may be assured, however, that, besides organizing at the shortest possible notice an entertainment which, by its splendour and good taste, reflects the highest credit on the British Community of B. Aires, you likewise most fully attained—what I know was your main object—thoroughly to amuse and gratify the young Princes. It is in their name, and not in mine that I offer you, and the Committee, sincere thanks for the great trouble and labour you took upon yourselves.

Believe me, Dear Mr Carroll,

Yours very truly

(Signed) Horace Rumbold

EDITOR'S TABLE.

The R.M.S. Tamar's passengers had a woefully hot day of it for embarking yesterday, but the sailing was put off till to-morrow. There was a rush, before we had even time to swallow our breakfast, to Printing House square for our Packet, Daily, Weekly, or any edition whatever with news of the Princes, the Ball, the Flying Squadron &c., to send to friends at home. We got a pain in our back from over exertion in taking in money for Packet Editions.

The following details respecting the Chilian army now round Lima, which we find in the Independiente of Santiago, are interesting at the present moment:

General en jefe, general de division don Manuel Baquedano.

Jefe de estado mayor general, general de brigada don Marcos Maturana.

First division, General Villagran: First brigade, Col. Lynch	5,940
Second brigade, Col Amunategui	4,850
Second division, Gen. Emilio Sotomayor: First brigade Col. Jose F Gana	4,150
Second brigade, Col. Barbosa	4,750
Third division, Col. Pedro Lagos: First brigade, Col. Urriola	5,100
Second brigade, Lieut. Col. Barcelo	4,600
Total	29,100

The news from Chile yesterday was merely stone, when the public were clamorous for the most highly aerated bread. The Nacional published a bulletin, but it was like most people's heads—there was next to nothing in it. General Villagran passed the best part of Friday in trying to explain to the Chamber of Deputies why he had been relieved of his command in the army. There was no war news in Santiago. Not a soul lett in Lima, except foreigners; natives all bolted, locking their houses and leaving furniture etc all standing. Pierola has Buendia—the man he tried for his life last week—on his staff. The Huascar would have been blown over the moon at Ancon but for the machinery of the torpedo boat getting out of order.

One of the best critiques we have seen on the British Residents' Ball is that of our esteemed German colleague the Wochenblatt. We recomment it to those of our readers who have mastered the great tongue of Schiller. It is written by our talented friend Mr Weill.

A particularly esteemed subscriber of ours went near winning the £100,000 in the Madrid Lottery; he had No 22,999, 35,999 being the winning number. He, however, gets back the price of his ticket, as it ended in 9, like the winning one.

Those who have been lucky enough to obtain invitations for Mr Murphy's grand rural fete to-day at Marcos Paz, must leave by the 9 o'clock train from Parque station. A Standard reporter will be there; but we are personally so thoroughly doneup with Christmas and New Year festivities, the Ball, and the heat of the weather, that we are most reluctantly forced to stop at home, for one day's rest. Our readers, however, shall have the fullest description of this great Hiberno-Porteño fete.

Sir Horace Rumbold, Bart, will entertain to-morrow evening at dinner, at his quinta in Belgrano, all the members of the British Residents' Ball Committee.

Through an accident which we regret, the names of Mr Crabtree, manager of the Northern Railway, and Mr Cooper, manager of the S. Railway, were omitted in the list we published yesterday of those who attended the ball to the Princes on Tuesday last. Both managers entered with the Princes' suite, which accounts for their names not appearing in the general list.

Our aristocratic London contemporary the St. James's Gazette says, that if Mr Gladstone knew as much about the Rio Negro territory as Mr Rom, or President Roca, the Irish question would soon be settled, and that the next naval demonstration by England ought to be with Lamport and Holt's steamers, with emigrants for the Plate.

No wonder Colonel Latorre declared that his countrymen were ungovernable (except by himself) A fresh row is brewing down there, and Colonel Saintos is said to be the coming man. We are tired of peace here! So concludes the telegram to an evening colleague, announcing the coming rumpus in the sister city. These half-dozen words are, verily, a more significant comment on Oriental affairs than all that could be written in a year. Banda Oriental is drunk with revolution, and cannot endure the sobriety of peace.

We have rsceived a letter from Robert Forsyth, a seaman on board H.M.S. Inconstant, the flagship of the Flying Squadron now at Montevideo, begging us to inquire about his father, Robert Forsyth, who is somewhere in Buenos Aires, but our brave correspondent does not know his address, and is anxious to hear from him. We shall feel obliged for any information respecting the present address of Forsyth senior.

Gold mines of extraordinary richness have been discovered near Concepcion, Chile. We must say that Fortune smiles on that country just now in every way. 'Heaven helps those who help themselves, say the French; and the Chilians seem determined to secure its assistance by helping themselves to a good slice of Peru.

The Municipality have very properly scouted Mr. Talafero's proposal to supply the highly moral amusement of bull-fighting to the citizens of Buenos Aires.

The latest news from the Santa Fe wheat colonies is that 8 fine days more will be sufficient to save the whole crop. The losses by the recent rains are trifling.

We publish in our back page the Prespectus and Contract of the Curamalan concession of land for breeding horses for export to Europe. The horses, in our opinion, are merely a secondary part of the scheme. Whoever secures the land at Mr. Rom's prices cannot err greatly, as it is the most tertile spot in the province.

Mr. Uriondo, the talented musical amateur, presented the young Princes, through Sir Horace Rumbold, Bart., during their stay here, with a Hymn composed by him in honour of Her Majesty Queen Victoria. We hear that Mr. U.'s composition possesses considerable merit, and is spoken highly of by musicians.

The Prov. ON
Southern and Western Lands
A New Map of the Pampa and Rio Negro Territory has recently been published under direction of Colonel Olascoaga, Chief of the Military Topographical Office, showing the newly acquired lands in above extended districts up to the New Military Frontier Line on the Rio Negro and Neuquen; with an appended vocabulary giving the derivation and import of Indian names of localities, which are known to be always indicative of the topographical character of the places named. To be had mounted on cloth and rollers, and also plain paper, in both cases the map is colored.

Dr. Jayne's ALTERATIVE
This valuable preparation combines all the medicinal virtues of those articles which long experience has proved to possess the most safe and efficient alterative and desobstruent properties, procuring for it a world-wide reputation as
THE GREAT PURIFIER OF THE BLOOD AND RENOVATOR OF THE SYSTEM.
Whenever the economy of the life-giving fluid has been vitated, it should be immediately called to help. It drives out pernicious humours, stimulates the absorbents, overcomes the obstinate state of the pores of the skin, regenerates the disordered organism, reestablishes health and sprits, and brings back a bright colour to the pallid complexion.
Thousands of testimonials establish its immense success for curing Scrofula or King's Evil, Skin and Mercurial diseases, Boils, Carbuncles and Ulcers, Dropsy and Dropsical Swellings, Enlargement and Ulceration of the Bones, Joints, Glands or Ligaments, Erysipelas, Epilepsy, Gout, Rheumatism and all diseases originating from a depraved and imperfect state of the Blood.
is compounded from carefully selected drugs; free from all mineral admixtures and may be Safely Relied on by all needing a medicine to build up the system, cleanse the blood and restore the healthy action of the secretive organs.
